AS WE GATHER: Our Bible Reading of the Day is Acts 11:1-18. Luke's account of Acts records how the church came to be composed of Jews and Gentiles. Although God used the prophets to prepare Israel for this worldwide salvation, people within the church were still shocked when Gentiles received the same New Covenant blessings promised to the Jews. As the Gospel continued to spread from Jerusalem, Judea, Samaria, and to the Gentile world, the Lord prepared Peter and the rest of the early Christians for the Good News that salvation is for all. As we will see in Acts 11, so that they didn't miss the point, the Lord allowed Peter and his company to witness Cornelius and his household receiving the same promise of the Holy Spirit that they themselves had experienced in Jerusalem.
